Dedicated to

C. Lewis Pitzer Jr.

As a mark of appreciation for the many things you have done this year for the students of Patrick Henry; for your benevolence which has taught us the value of getting along with people; for your tact and the gentlemanly spirit you never fail to exhibit to us; for your time, whether it be in the office, in the school clubs, in the classrooms in fact, at any time; for the respect and consideration you have given us—we offer this sincere expression of love and high regard, as we dedicate the 1962 yearbook to you . . . Mr. C. Lewis Pitzer, Jr.

We Knew long ago that someday a new high school would be built in Raleigh Court. In 1947 the Roanoke School Board traded property on West Campbell Avenue to the Kazim Temple for thirty-five acres on Shrine Hill. Many people worked long years to make this dream of a school come true. Dr. John F. Owens, Minister of Raleigh Court Methodist Church, in his dedication prayer, December 17, 1961, summed up eloquently the feelings of us all: "We thank thee for those who had the vision to see the need, and the courage and faith and spirit of devotion and sacrifice to undertake this great enterprise and carry it through to this glad consummation." The School Board's letter of intent was written June 29, 1960. Ground was broken on July 10, 1960. And on September 5, 1961, twelve hundred of us (proud freshmen, sophomores, juniors and seniors, administration officers and faculty) reassigned from other schools, moved in. We've been here a year now and we love it!

We Realized even while the buildings were under construction and while the faculty worked with new concepts of curriculum, that we as a class and student body would have to change many of our previous ideas and accustomed ways. We knew that Mr. Harold L. Secord, principal of Jefferson for four years, would move with us to be principal and three new deans would be appointed.

We began thinking of colors, nicknames, cheers, ring designs, seals, and uniforms for various groups that could be used at Patrick Henry. We wondered how the student government and clubs would be formed from the three units.

We discussed our new name, Patrick Henry, searching in every sourcebook for information about the well-known statesman. The names PATRIOT for the yearbook, QUILL for the magazine, and STATESMAN for the newspaper were chosen. After much debate we settled on the colors of purple, gold, and white. We dreaded the separation from our friends and a school that we all loved. We knew, however, that the change would require a tedious, industrious, and imaginative first year . . . and how right we were!

Student government officials Kitty Downs, Gynetha Coxwell, Vincent Conway, Johnny Edwards, Bobby Cooper and advisor, Miss Wood, work diligently on plans for the new school.

An airview look shows Patrick Henry High School under construction last summer.

The academic units and gymnasium are nearly completed in September, 1961.

We Came wondering, expecting, finding, and understanding.

With wide eyes and open mind we entered the nearly completed buildings on September 5, 1961. We remember moving into our new "Frontier" and were delighted to be pioneers in this year of the "Twist" and the beehive coiffeur. We searched not only for the right classrooms, but also for the right buildings. We observed our glass-paneled rooms, some with no desks and still others with no chairs. We saw the workmen painstakingly busy; the teachers scurrying frantically about; the students "walking onstage" in a dream, hoping this 1961-62 drama would be a success.

Tommy Burnette, John Greiner, Ben Adkins and Dave Weddle unpack classroom furniture.

We Remember the hilarious Publications Assembly with the unforgettable impersonation of Patrick Henry.

With considerable vigor, we gave the first cheer in the new gym. We recall the Dedication of the school on December 17. We attended the football games, a little hesitatingly at first, but later with undoubted enthusiasm. Our Thanksgiving and Christmas assemblies gave us our first concerts of our new, small choir. After much debate we saw our school nicknamed PATRIOTS. We saw our dreams and ideas developed by new organizations. Most important, we watched the foundations laid for a truly great high school.

Learned that Patrick Henry would be unique among schools.

Patrick Henry is designed upon the school within a school idea, affording the intimacy of a small school with the curricular advantages of a large campus. We saw three academic units named McQuilkin, Parsons, and Persinger Halls. The upper floors of each hall are similar, each with eleven classrooms and a large general education room seating approximately four hundred people. The lower floor of McQuilkin Hall contains a music room, home economics department, and business facilities. Parsons Hall has the ever-popular cafeteria and a drama room. An art lab, mechanical drawing room and industrial arts lab are on the lower level of Persinger Hall. The library and administration buildings, the true heart of any school, are between Parsons and McQuilkin Halls.

"Primarily this school provides space for teaching and learning on individual, small, average, and large group bases. It is functionally useful, artistically pleasing, and economical in meeting the needs of youth in a comprehensive high school. It has a great degree of flexibility so that changes in educational programs can be made as may be required over the years ahead."

We Saw ourselves mature, enriched and re-warded

We saw ourselves, many for the first time, mature into young adults. Aiding us in this growth was a wealth of ideas and devices provided by the school. We experimented with language labs, Temac programs for math, and much new equipment that was used throughout the various buildings.

We knew that our P. T. A. was established with able leadership, good attendance, and a variety of ideas to help better our school. Our deans devoted much of their time to improving our schedules to fit our needs. The teachers, in turn, worked long hours with extra curricular activities, publications, and the unceasing subjects which they taught. All combined, we remember that these helped to make our year a most deserving and successful one.

We Achieved.....

"We thank Thee for this school and its promise of ever growing service. From this school may the light of truth shine with ever growing brightness."

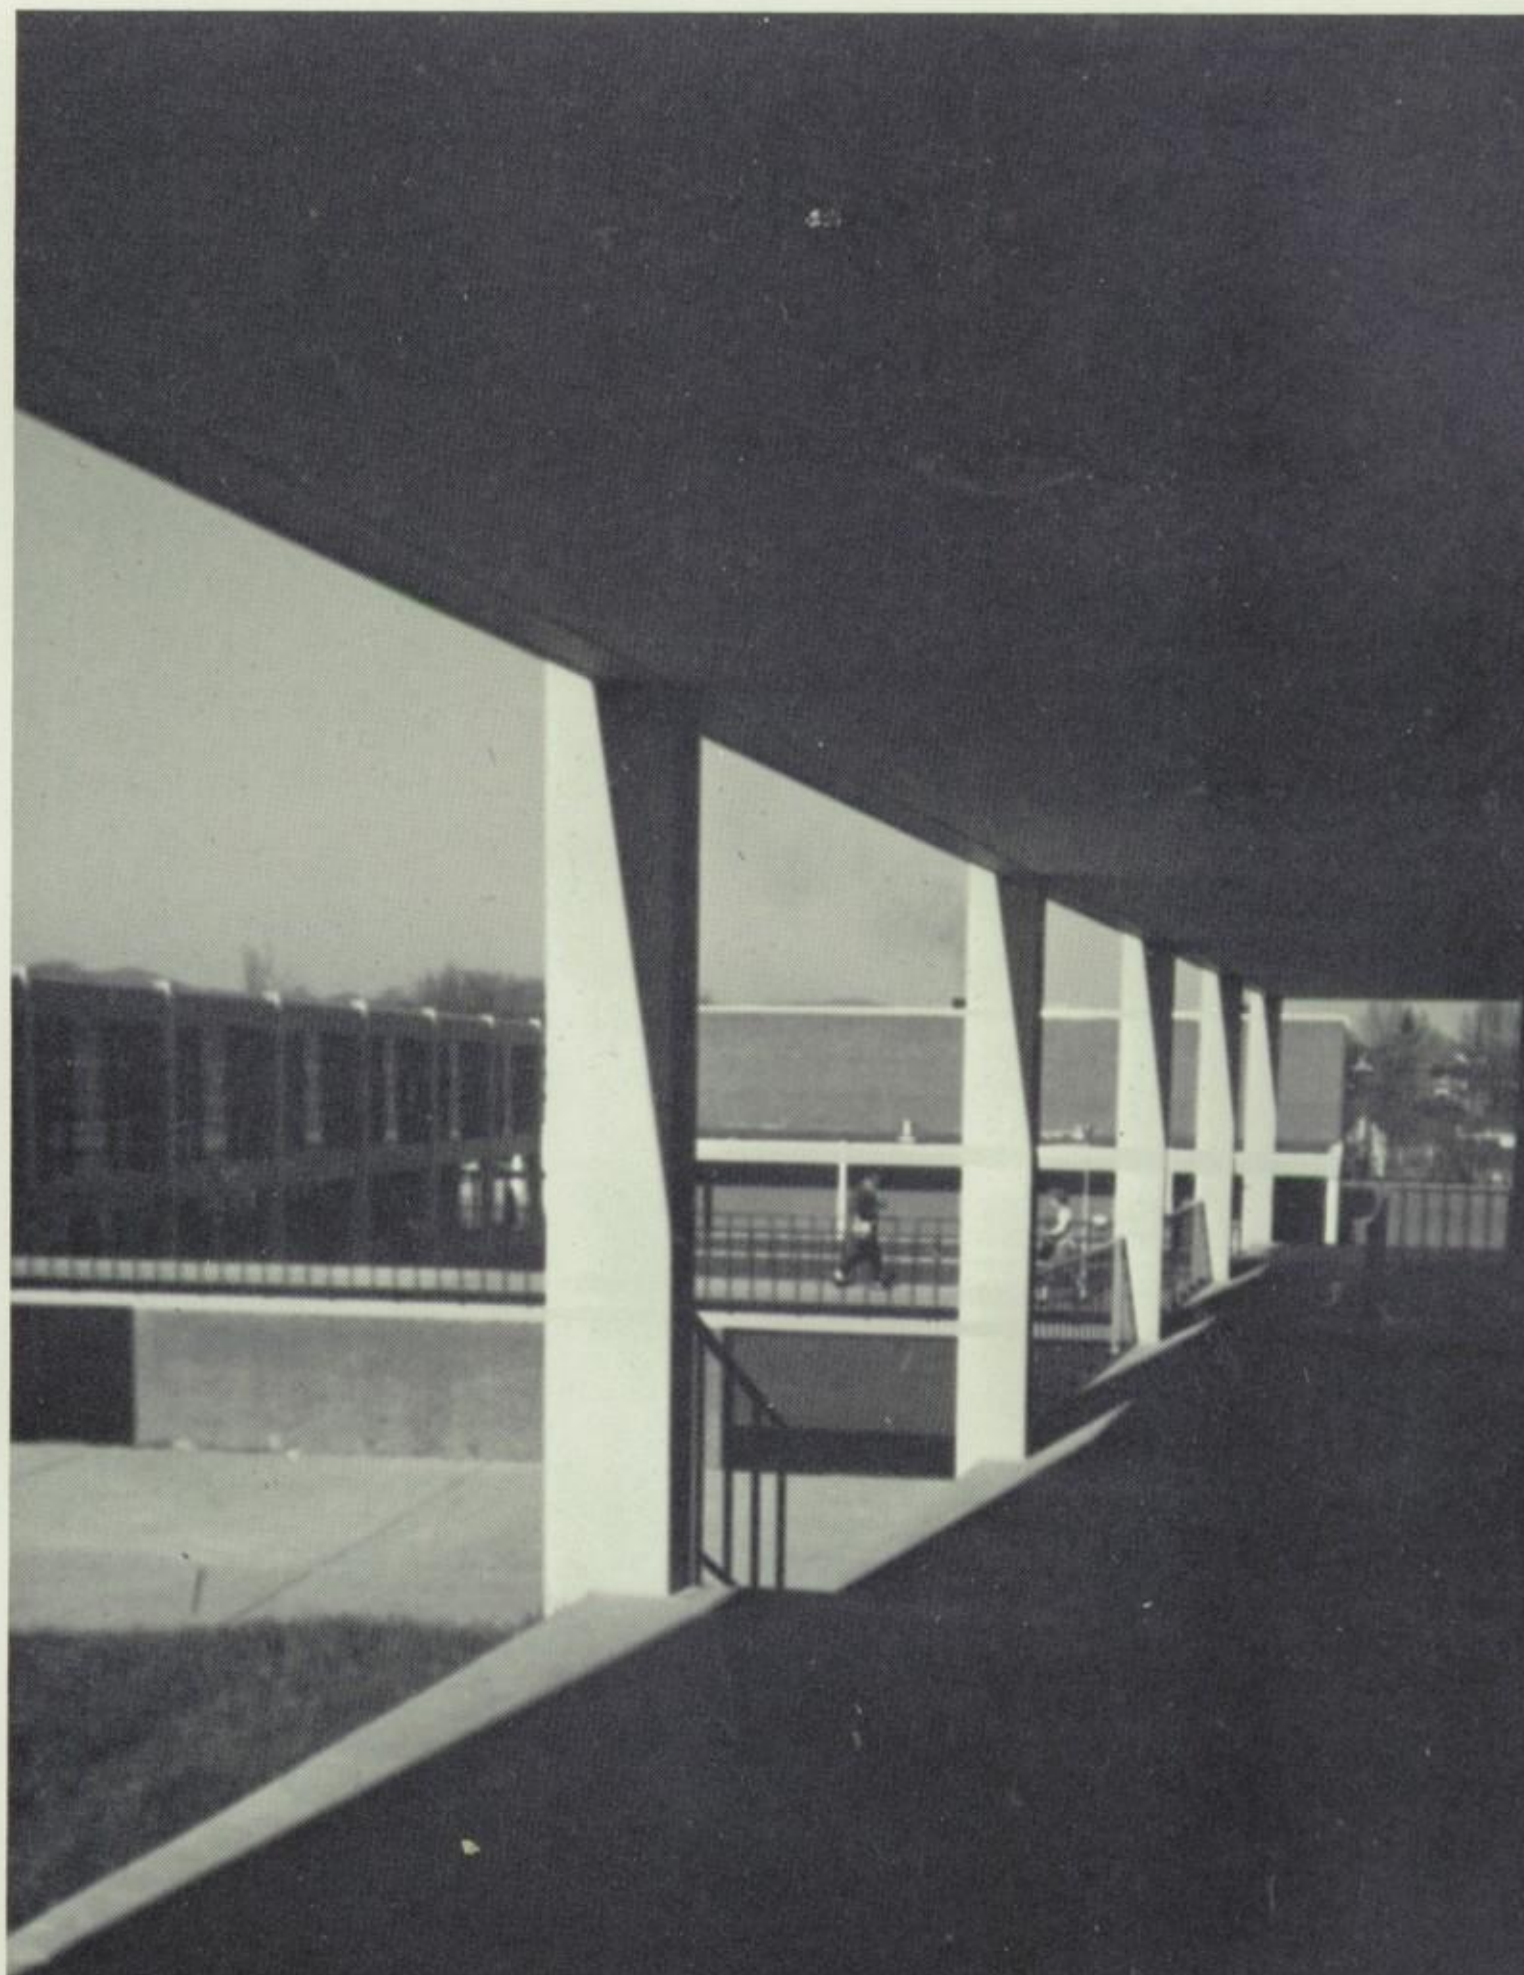

From the dedication prayer of Dr. John F. Owens, Minister of Raleigh Court Methodist Church.

"Students of Patrick Henry, cry not that you have no tradition, no alumnae, no customs that you may follow. Think it a blessing that you do not have to follow the road and the way set by a past generation. Be glad that you have the opportunity to plan the road for a generation to come, a power not to be taken lightly or to be easily cast aside. We may look to the old way for guidance, but we shall never return."

From a poem by John Wilson, "Tribute", which appeared in the fall issue of the "Quill".

The Setting

Mr. Harold L. Secord, B.S.,
M.A., New York University,
Principal of Patrick Henry
High School.

The Administration Establishes

One of the main purposes of our school-within-a-school is to provide a closer relationship between the faculty and students. This relationship is well-achieved by having different units of supervision under one main head. Our 1200 students are divided into three groups, each having its own teachers, administrative unit, and classrooms. The principal, Mr. Harold L. Secord, is responsible for the planning and execution of work in the three academic divisions, the library, and the main office. It is his duty to see that these halls function smoothly not only individually but also as a whole.

Nearly all of a student's contacts with the administration are made through the deans. Because a student is in the same hall throughout high school, he, his dean, the Guidance Counselor and his teachers learn to know each other with the closeness to be gained only in a small school.

Brothers and sisters are placed in the same halls so that this familiarity is also extended to the family of the student.

Through this plan the pupils of Patrick Henry obtain a greater sense of responsibility and cooperation. Not only do they uphold the standards of the entire school but also display a remarkable loyalty to their respective halls. The challenge to do the best possible is prominent and ever demanding. This challenge is met by helpful reassurance from the entire administration; it is their desire above all to make of Patrick Henry the school it is intended to be. Already the results have proved that the closer relationship between faculty and students makes a better relationship between students and success.

Mr. Lewis Pitzer, dean of McQuilken Hall, discusses the decisions of the ring committee with Aylett Stone.

An unseen student is the recipient of the quizzical expression worn by Mr. Donald Bartol, dean of Parsons Hall.

Mr. Benjamin Taylor, dean of Persinger Hall, plans what must be done during the coming day.

Mr. James Bishop, head of the Guidance Department, coordinates the work of the Counselors.

Counselors Plan Student Programs

All these administrative departments are set up with the sole purpose of giving to students the best education to meet the ever-increasing demands of life in and after high school. The administration and the faculty continually work together to achieve this ideal of education. The guidance department links their efforts to those of the students and their parents.

Miss Martin discusses college plans with Joy Davis.

Guidance Advisors Pattern Study

To be well-versed on information concerning vocational testing, Mr. Bishop reads one of the many bulletins that come to him.

While the administration sets up the curriculum pattern for students to follow in high school, the guidance department conveys this pattern to each student individually, helping him adjust it to his own needs and ambitions. The head of Guidance, Mr. James W. Bishop, plans the methods of assistance given to students. He and the guidance counselors of each unit help all students to recognize their abilities and develop them to their best advantage. Guidance advisors are Mrs. Elizabeth Ward, Parsons Hall, Mr. Carl Nave, McQuilken Hall, and Miss Margaret Martin, Persinger Hall.

By receiving vocational and personal counseling from the same person for four years, the student is enabled to familiarize the counselor with his particular problems and together they can arrive at a solution particularly profitable to that student. Decisions are left up to the student and his parents, though helpful advice and suggestions are readily given.

Mr. Nave writes a letter of recommendation to a college.

Faye Pleasants checks with Mrs. Ward to make sure she has all of the required credits for graduation.

English—Two R's Plus Projects

One administrative task is the establishing of challenging and suitable curricula. A responsibility of the Guidance Department is the channeling of students into the proper courses. In turn, the various academic faculties must receive students, the Patrick Henry cast in this drama of education, and provide for them productive classroom experiences. In these pages will be discussion of our 1961-62 curriculum with pictures of various class activity.

In our first year we have had 1124 students enrolled in 14 Academic, 22 General and one Special English classes. Other courses offered are Speech, Reading Improvement, World Literature, Creative Writing and Journalism.

We have been able to bring together large groups for instruction—to hear student discussion, or that led by parents, other community guests, or teachers of Patrick Henry or nearby colleges. Proudly we set new traditions in all phases of pupil learning.

Math—New and Conventional Ways

The mathematics department offers a strong diversified program in which it attempts to combine the best of the traditional methods with the more modern approach. Math teachers endeavor to create in the pupil a desire to learn; to develop the pupil's power to reason and think clearly; to work in a systematic manner; and to provide a foundation for future work in mathematics and science. These abilities are developed for those who plan to enter business after high school as well as those who expect a rigid college preparation. Under the leadership of Dr. Rushton, teachers are using programmed mathematics in some of the ninth grade General Math, Algebra I, Algebra II, and Plane Geometry classes. Because of this, much interest has been focused on our school and prominent educators throughout the United States and Canada have observed our classes in action. Interested math students competed in a Regional Mathematics Test on March 8th.

Science—New

Audrey Jarrelle and Jerry Cecil check the chemistry display they have arranged.

The Patrick Henry Science Department strives to meet the present need for more and better science education. Our instructors encourage in students curiosity about science and the desire to obtain more knowledge. This year semi-micro equipment for chemistry laboratories was introduced into the city by Patrick Henry. To supplement conventional courses, additional science programs for talented and interested students were developed by Dr. David Redfield, City Science Coordinator. In one of his classes, twenty high school seniors have received a first-hand look at engineering. In another program, Carole Grossman, Theresa Nash, and Bill McAfee obtained views of the medical profession through work in the city hospitals. The National Science Foundation has made possible an expanded science program for talented high school seniors in the city this summer. The Roanoke City schools have made many advancements in science education in recent years, and Patrick Henry is now an active contributor to further progress along these lines.

Languages—

A new method of teaching pronunciation of foreign language sounds was introduced at Patrick Henry this year. Sponsored by the Encyclopedia Britannica Films, Inc., Temac phonetic material was given to classes of French, Latin, Spanish, and German. The complete German course consisted of this material developed at Hollins College. There was no programmed phonetic course in Russian.

Most students who participated in this program were able to go at their own speeds since each had a tape recorder and ear phones. Because there were a limited number of tape recorders in the language lab, some pupils remained in the regular classroom to listen to a tape recorder operated by their teacher.

The emphasis placed on pronunciation of the language was perhaps inspired by the quotation which is hung on the wall of the language lab, "It is not a language unless you speak it."

The Patrick Henry Choir, Band, and Orchestra rehearsed in comfort last fall and this spring in the only air-conditioned class room in the Roanoke City School System. Because the Music Room is sound-proof, there are no windows. The main room, having a multi-level floor with space for a 115 member music group, features a row of music and instrument storage cabinets. In addition, there are three practice rooms, a library and offices.

The Art and Industrial Arts classes, in addition to their regular courses of study, have been responsible for beautifying Patrick Henry during its first year. Besides maintaining art bulletin boards and providing various art designs used throughout the halls, art students made murals, mosaics, and tapestries, which contributed variety and color. The members of the Industrial Arts classes built some of the furniture needed by the "cast" in their new "set".

Our History Department offers a wide selection of courses from which to acquire the necessary three units for graduation. American History and Government are taught on both A and B levels; for the advanced students, Honor classes in both are taught. In addition, one may choose from regularly planned classes in World History and Geography.

Special attention was paid in all social studies classes to the Virginia Assembly while it was in session during January and February. In addition to regular curricular material, newspapers were read daily and discussed in class.

The History Department sponsored a special assembly to introduce candidates for the House of representatives and to familiarize students with the opposing platforms. This assembly led to a gubernatorial straw election in which all members of history classes took part.

Business—A Career Pointer

Our Education Department has met the demands of the non-business students who desire business subjects strictly for personal use—typewriting has been especially popular. Shorthand and bookkeeping have also been taught for those who planned to work in business or who entered college immediately upon graduation.

The Vocational Department studied salesmanship, display, human relations, advertising, ad lay-out, and copywriting in the classroom. Our Distributive Education students put these skills to good use during the 15 hours each week that they worked in Retail, Wholesale, and Service Training Stations.

Home Ec—Home Making Ideals and Know How

The study of home economics is of value to students enrolled in all high school programs—academic, business, vocational, and general. Since every girl is a potential homemaker, work of this type not only helps her to develop as a person, but also to prepare for the most important of all vocations—homemaking.

Our Home Economics Department offers courses in food and nutrition, child care, housing, nursing care, clothing, and home management. This program is open to both boys and girls.

The main objectives of the Physical Education Department are to provide opportunities for participation in physical activities that will meet the physical, social, emotional, and mental needs of all students; to develop the organic systems of the body so that each may function at its highest level; and to develop skills in activities with favorable attitudes toward play that will carry over and function during leisure. These objectives are obtained by the well-rounded program of activities which are provided by the department. These activities include team and individual sports and dancing in co-rec. An intramural program is offered to students for further participation in the athletic program here: the setting—Patrick Henry's new gym; the cast—athletic participants.

Sportsmanship and Fitness for All

"Patriettes" of all sizes reach tow-ward.

Our school library has had maximum usage! This is true not only because the public library is so inconveniently far away but our library's modern interior with its brand new tables and chairs beckons students to come and study. Gradually the supply of books has been built up. Many volumes have been given by students, teachers, parents, and other interested adults. Another gift, received from a local club, is a striking print of Patrick Henry. Money has been donated by the National Honor Society and by other clubs and private individuals. This money has been diligently spent by the librarians to assure for us the best possible selection.

As a result of such careful planning and purchasing we now have a good collection of over 6,000 books and five sets of encyclopedias in the latest editions. The library subscribes to five newspapers, of which two are in foreign languages, and 37 magazines.

Each period students assist in the library, checking, sorting, and shelving books.

The Library— No Talk, Much Work

Performing various library tasks are Betty Hoffman, Linda Daniels, Sylvia Duncan, Betty Snapp, Lenora Cooley, Joyce Wimmer, and Sydney Turner.

Lemon, Miss Ruby, Librarian. A.B., Randolph-Macon Woman's College. Advisor, Library Club.

Library assistants Nelson Thompson, Sue Etheridge, Linda Weaver, Tommy Waterman, and Cheryl Martin place returned books on the shelves.

Food is prepared in the Patrick Henry large kitchen for our students and those in our three Elementary Satellites, Raleigh Court, Fishburn Park and Fairview. For delivery to the Satellites, filled dishes are stacked into insulated containers—eight per container; containers are placed in transport boxes; boxes, into especially outfitted trucks. At Ra-

Our Kitchens serve lunches for over 800 hungry boys and girls each day.

Cafeteria—for Hungry Patriots

No identifications are needed. Just look at these hungry ones going thru the cafeteria line.

Some doubtful, some maybe yes. Maybe no. Some yes indeed. We want whatever is offered. Some no, not today.

Mrs. Marian Johnson and Mrs. Pauline Poindexter make sandwiches under the direction of Mrs. Willie B. Moses, Manager of the kitchens.

Mrs. Audrey Aldrich and Mrs. Bessie M. Coffman roll out biscuits for lunch. Our hot breads are already famous.

leigh Court, Fishburn and Fairview, containers are transferred to serving carts which deliver lunches directly to the classroom group. The obvious success of this experiment in food management and the constant stream of guests visiting the kitchen indicates that other school systems will soon be following our lead.

and William H. Childress portion foods into plates for students in our satellite schools.

Patriots Praise Custodial Care

We have a fine custodial staff of fourteen, headed by Mr. Albert C. Holden. They provided many services to the school around the clock. All of the equipment which they use is of the newest design, such as the stoker-fed furnace, located in the power plant of the gymnasium building. With the exception of the cafeteria, which is heated directly by steam, the steam is converted to hot water for heating the school. Many visitors have come to see this new heating system. For the care of this and other facilities, we are deeply indebted to the custodians.

fun we had in the boiler room.

Patriots Pioneer in Many Areas

Not that we would wish to boast about ANYTHING—such as our setting, cast, plot, action or reviews! But we would be the first to agree that our setting—$1,800,000 Patrick Henry—is the best! So is our cast—over 1100 enthusiastic Freshmen, Sophomores, Juniors and Seniors. As we've said many times on previous pages, we are pioneering in many areas of education: school-within-a-school physical plant, programmed curriculum material in math, Latin, French, Spanish and German. Our Satellite school lunch service idea is being examined by educators across the country.

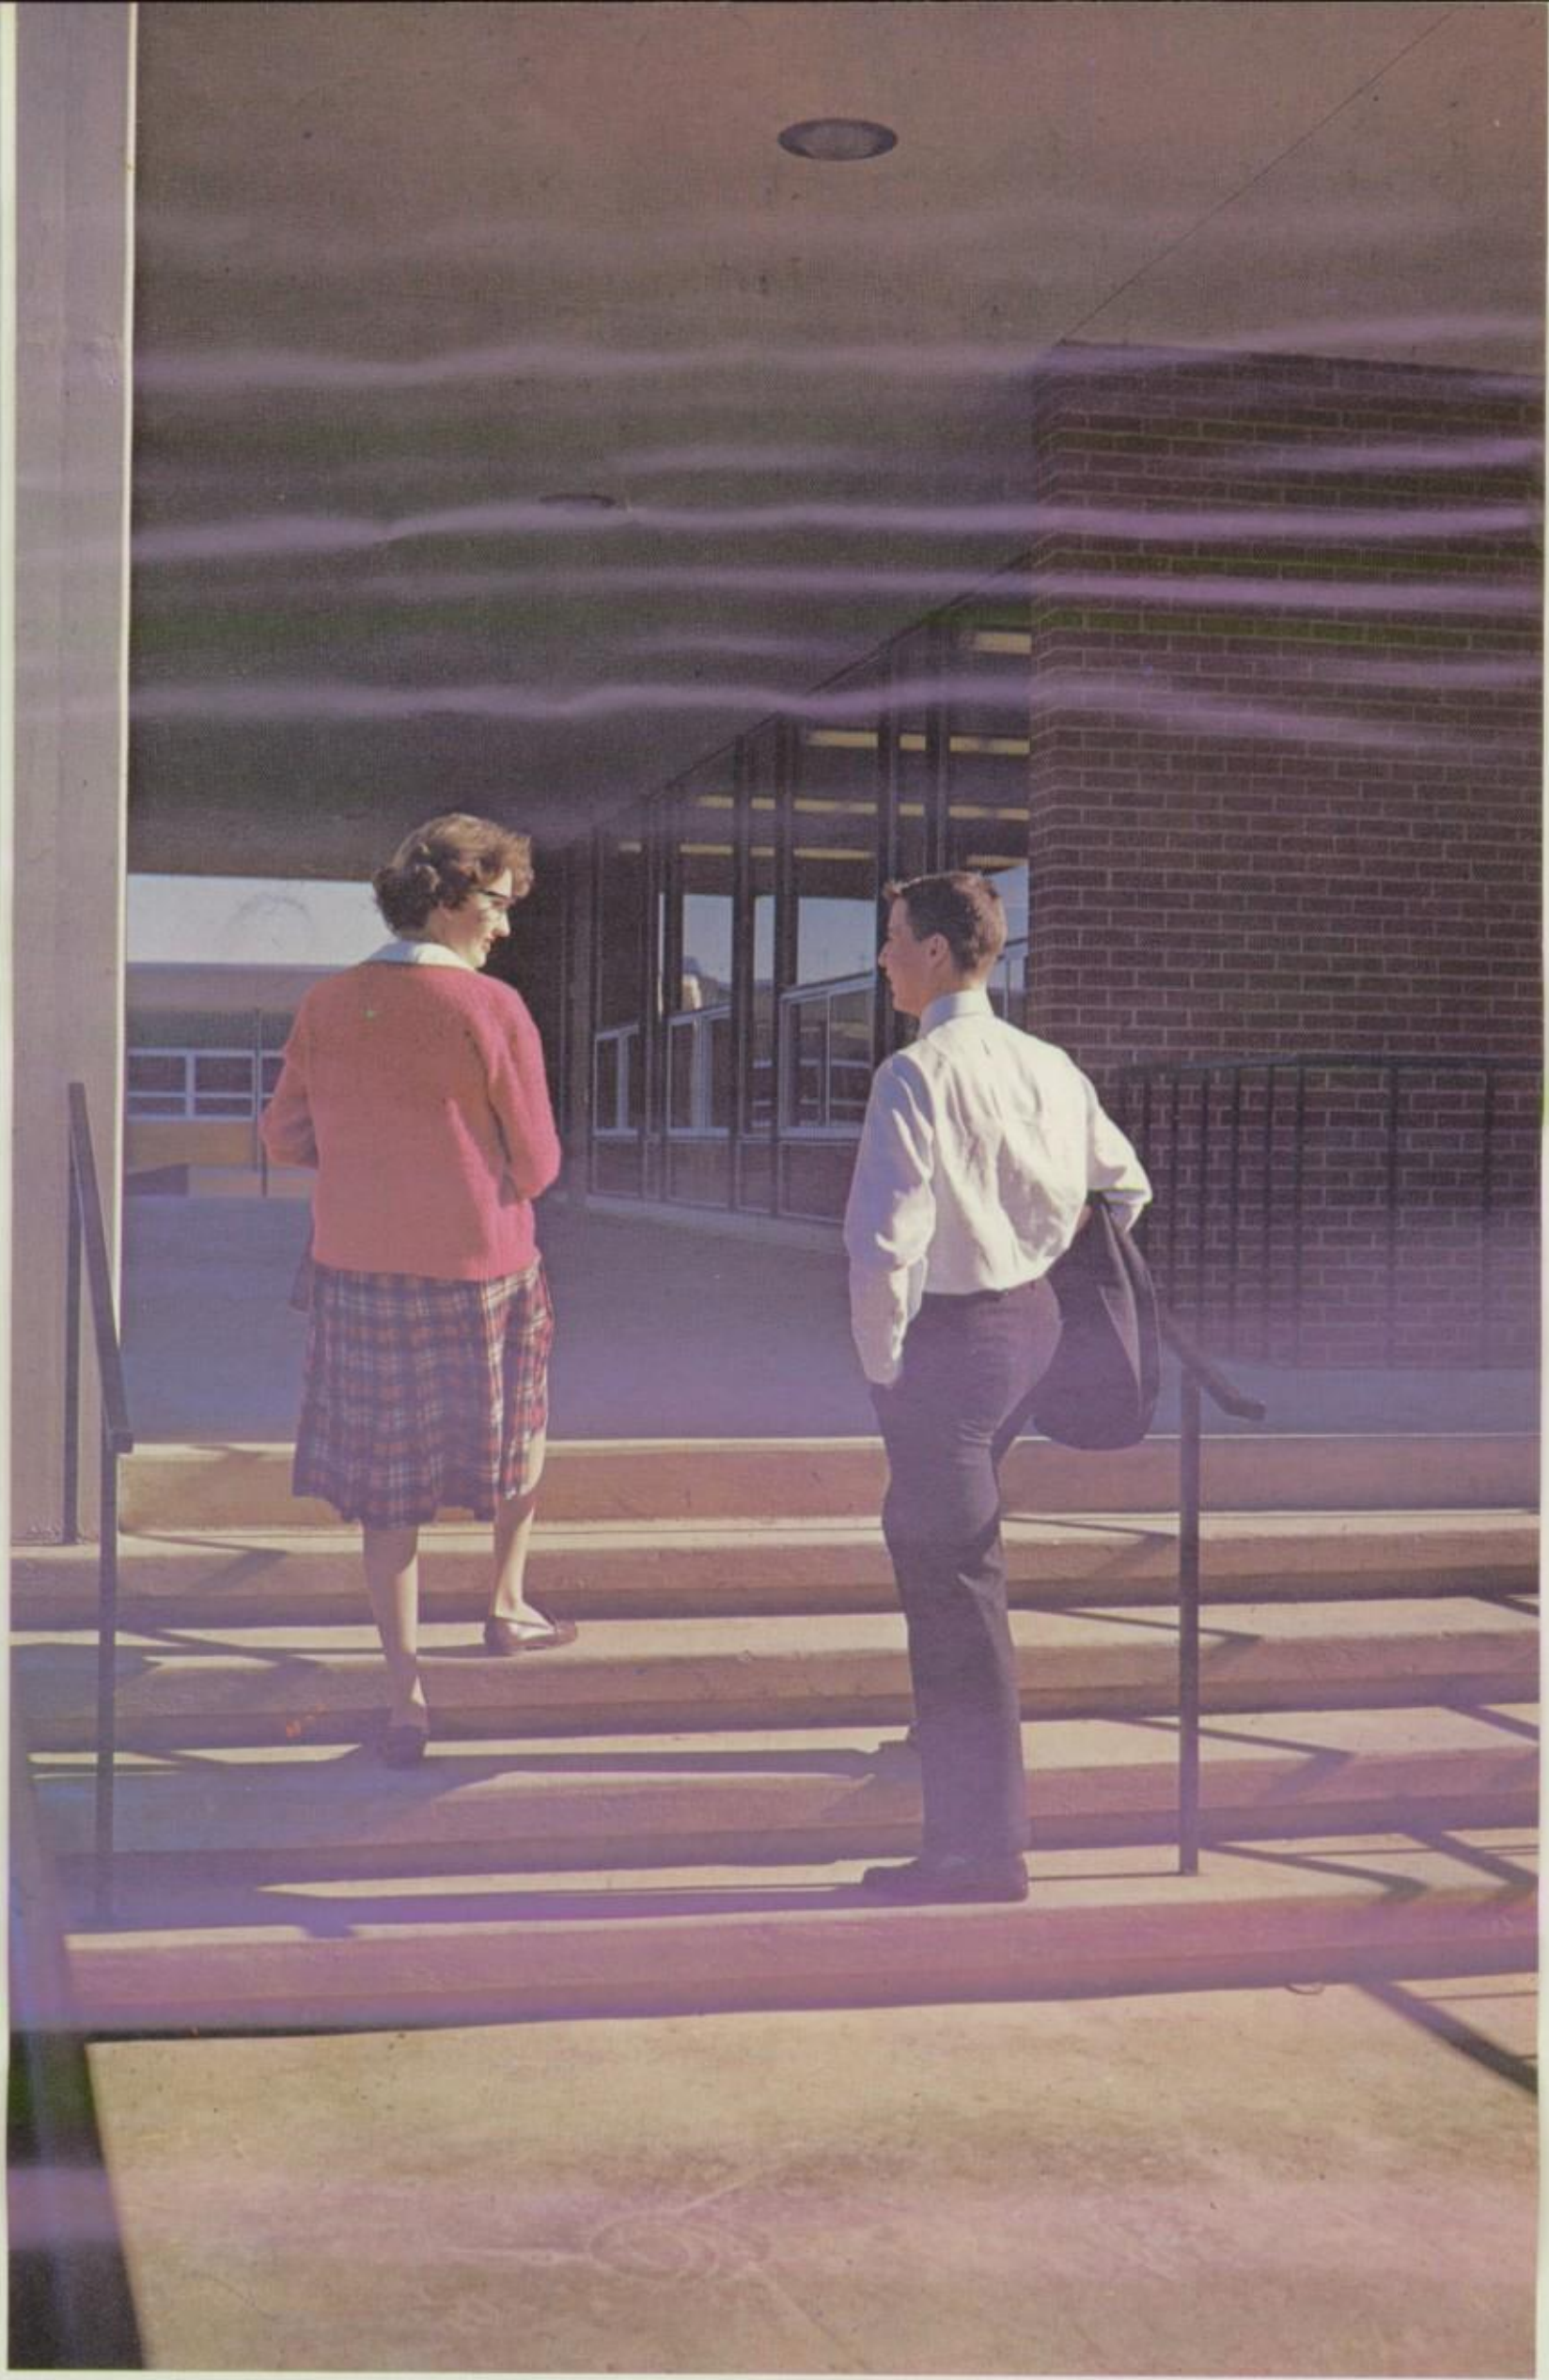

On the next 38 pages are presented those enthusiastic Freshmen, Sophs, Juniors and Seniors—the lover 1100 members of the cast of our Patrick Henry 1961-62 drama.

THE CAST

220 seniors play a major part in our drama, while 368 freshmen, 273 sophomores, and 262 juniors are cast in supporting roles. With excellent direction the players developed some striking characterizations, ranging from comedy to high drama, and gained experience which should be valuable in future roles.

The Cast

The first freshmen at Patrick Henry outnumbered all other classes. This group of 369 students has shown a tremendous amount of school spirit and enthusiasm both in school and at extra-curricular activities.

Our freshmen were well represented as club members, cheerleaders, in athletic competition, and received their full share of recognition in individual honors.

Fall brought bewildering days filled with responsibility, but it also offered stimulating challenges. With the ending of final exams our freshman class of '65, with pride and joy of achievement, became sophomores, ready for a second successful year in high school.

For Sophomores— Moving Up Fast

We sophomores are just getting under way. The stage directions are clearer now, but we need more experience. Soon we'll be taking more difficult roles, but this year we're satisfied to play bit parts. We found many ways to help the production crew and learned our craft by practicing long and hard. When we are seniors this school won't be so new. By that time we'll be familiar with its modern lines, its "open air" walkways, and its impressive design. We're looking forward to being upperclassmen, but until that time arrives we'll do our best to add to the traditions being established at Patrick Henry.

This has been an exciting year for us, one in which we've learned to accept the responsibilities of high school life.

Mr. Ben Taylor, Mr. Charles Tucker and his son, Taz, avidly watch the faculty-varsity volleyball game.

The Class of '63 is already trying to surpass the freshly-set goals made for them by the present seniors, the very first graduating class and therefore the natural leaders at Patrick Henry. The Juniors have worked tirelessly on many school projects, whether helping sell fire extinguishers or working on the Junior-Senior Prom.

They have, above all, supported plans for our exchange student for next year since, as seniors, they will be the guiding hosts.

To start that next year off a few dollars ahead, they have been continuously building up their bank account. This will undoubtedly be the "most-prepared" graduating class of PHS!

Tommy Holcomb, President;
Mrs. Nancy Dickerson, Senior
Class Sponsor; and Bill McAfee,
Vice-President.

The class of 1962 is proud to have been a part of the first production of Patrick Henry High School. We felt like stars in the drama, and we hope we played our parts well. Not all of us were sure we would like our "school within a school", but it made a wonderful set for our play.

Now our year is almost over, and it's time to split up the school we helped put together! We'll miss our friends, our senior privileges, our "private" lockers. What senior will forget those walks in the sunshine, in the rain, in the snow?

We'll be sad when we leave our beautiful school, but we must remember that this period was not a goal in itself, but a time for preparation. The biggest challenges are yet to come. We hope we're ready for them!

Jim Spiggle, Executive Council
Representative; and Julia Trent, Secretary.

THE PLOT

Clubs and organizations modeled the plot from a traditional story, adding some new twists of their own. Service projects, assemblies, dances, and banquets meant staging problems for the crew, but gave actors a chance to create some of the production's most memorable scenes.

The Plot

Inter-Club Association

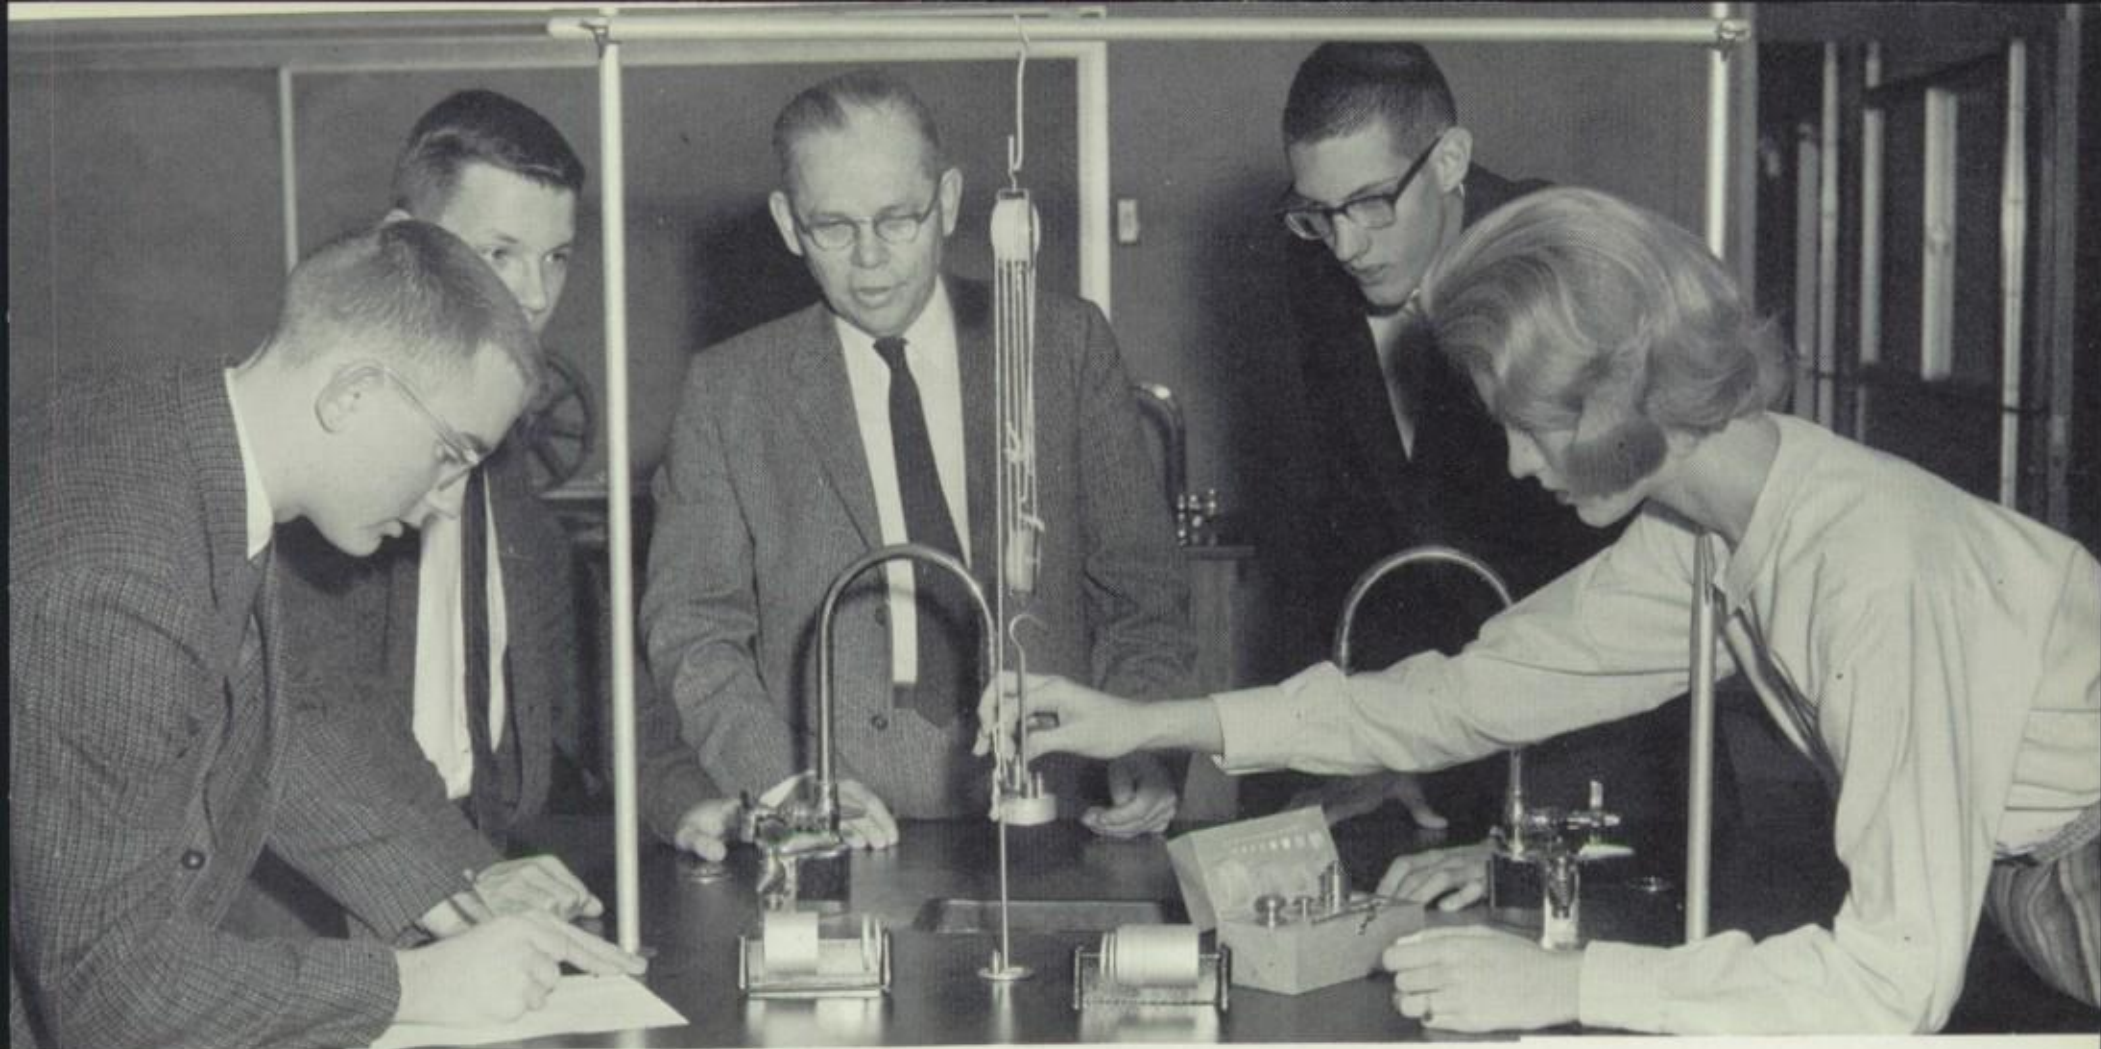

The Inter-Club Association was founded to help co-ordinate, promote, assist, and co-operate with the various official student organizations of Patrick Henry High School. Each organization has one representative in the I.C.A. with one vote. This member is the highest ranking student leader of that organization. The Vice-President of Student Government presides over I.C.A. meetings, which are held the first Friday of each month. The Executive Secretary, the only elected officer, is responsible for executing the purpose of the I.C.A. and may appoint any assistants necessary. He represents all official organizations at Executive Council and House of Burgesses meetings.

This year the I.C.A. published a calendar monthly of the dates, times, and places of all Patrick Henry club meetings and athletic events. The calendar was distributed to every House of Burgesses member, who was instructed to post it on his home room bulletin board so that each student could refer to it.

Marvin Smith, Executive Secretary, discusses the I.C.A. calendar with Vincent Conway, Student Government Vice-President; John Wilson, Assistant Secretary; and Kitty Downs, Clerical Secretary; as Carol Wood, Recording Secretary, takes notes.

Officers Tommy Lemons, Johnny Johnson, John Wilson, and Betty Aydlett work an experiment with the Science Club sponsor Mr. J. N. Harker.

Science Club Aids Special Interests

The Science Club of Patrick Henry High School is devoted to the promotion of science and the scientific method outside the classroom as a supplement to regular instruction. Any student with an interest in science is invited to join. At bi-monthly meetings speakers such as scientists, engineers, and doctors have addressed the club. Other programs have been movies, panel discussions, and slides. As part of the club activities members may participate in seminar discussions. To culminate a successful year the Science Club has planned field trips to places of particular scientific interest. With Mr. J. N. Harker as sponsor, these young scientists were led by President, Johnny Johnson; Vice-President, John Wilson; Secretary, Betty May Aydlett; and Treasurer, Tommy Lemons.

Science Club members Bob Giles, Shelby Dickerson, and Bill Overstreet perform demonstration at a club meeting.

President David Burroghs, Vice President Whit Wirsing, Secretary Carol Edwards, and Treasurer Bruce Cassell plan forthcoming programs.

La Lingua Espanola Reenacts

The traditional Pinata spills food for all at the Christmas party.

A new school . . . a new Spanish club: La Ligua Espanola, sponsored by Miss Bowman and Miss Wood. Many interesting and informative programs have been presented by students. The Christmas Party, the highlight of the year, was such a program, with Spanish carols and the Pinata, which spelled fun and spilled food for all. In April, the members organized a Spring Picnic, and feasted on Spanish dishes. The Seniors presented their own program in May, consisting of translations and skits. One new touch added this year was the exchange of visits with Spanish clubs from other schools in the city.

As the nativity is portrayed, Wedford Turner reads the Christmas story in Spanish, as Dick Osborne translates into English.

Marianne Features French Life

The Marianne French Club, the largest club at Patrick Henry, promotes the student's interest in the French language by acquainting him with French culture, the educational system, and the social life. At monthly meetings, students have enjoyed films, discussions, and lectures presented by either native Frenchmen or persons who had spent time in France.

Activities of the club included the Christmas party, the Language Assembly, and the spring picnic, where "Certificates of Honor" were presented to the officers, representatives, and members. Officers also were given disks engraved with their initials in recognition of their service throughout the year. The club sent money to a needy French family and members corresponded with French students during the year.

La Liberté, the French publication of Patrick Henry, contains features on historic and modern France. Current news — whether on fashion, music, art, or politics — appeared in this year's six issues.

J. C. L. Begins Orator

The Patrick Henry Latin Club is affiliated with the State and National Junior Classical Leagues. This organization encourages an interest in and an appreciation for the civilization, language, literature, and art of ancient Greece and Rome.

At monthly meetings programs were presented by students under the direction of Nelson Thompson, vice-president. These programs varied from humorous skits and home movies, to readings of the classic literature of that period.

The Latin Club sponsors a Latin-English newspaper, the ORATOR, published six times this first year.

Membership is open to all interested students.

German Culture Interests Die Lorelei

Members of Die Lorelei:

Suzanne Francis, Becky Mullen, Joycelyn Lee, Tommy Lemons, Cora Jane Davis, Tommy Ann Sellers, Jim Kulp, Joe Coleman, Charles Perkins, Geoff Bird.

This year the German Club had the distinction not only of being the charter club at Patrick Henry, but also the first to be organized in the Roanoke Public School System.

Die Lorelei met twice monthly, on the first and third Mondays. The main purpose was not to plan programs around the German language but rather to explore further into the culture and literature of that country.

The club of 11 members spent time in many meetings studying German poetry. It was from one famous selection that the name Die Lorelei, was chosen.

Officers of Die Lorelei, Cora Jane Davis, Secretary-Treasurer; Tommy Anne Sellers, typist; Becky Mullen, vice-president; and Suzanne Frances, President, look over equipment to be used by club members.

Self-expression

One of the most active school-sponsored clubs at Patrick Henry is the National Thespian Society with its apprentice group, The Dramatics Club. This organization has, in its first year of operation, been responsible for the presentation of a skit and two plays. "If Men Played Cards as Women Do" was presented for the Classroom Teacher's Association in December. The Glass Menagerie, a three act play by Tennessee Williams, was presented in the school cafeteria April 6-7. "While the Milk Clabbered", a one act play by Ruth and Johnny Young was presented for competition at the district one act play festival in Lynchburg. The National Thespian Society is an honorary organization and Dramatics Club members are invited to join only after they have earned ten points by working on the productions.

Our Liberal Arts Club of 25 members presented various programs during the past year which included discussion, travel, and talks by outside speakers.

Promotion of higher thoughts, logic, and reason was accomplished by lectures, travel, and seminar discussions. Also stressed was the exchange of ideas among students and faculty, as well as further education outside the classroom.

The Chess Division of our Liberal Arts Club sponsored competition among its members. Later as other schools organize chess clubs, we shall encourage and participate in inter-school tournaments.

Statesman Presents News As It Happens

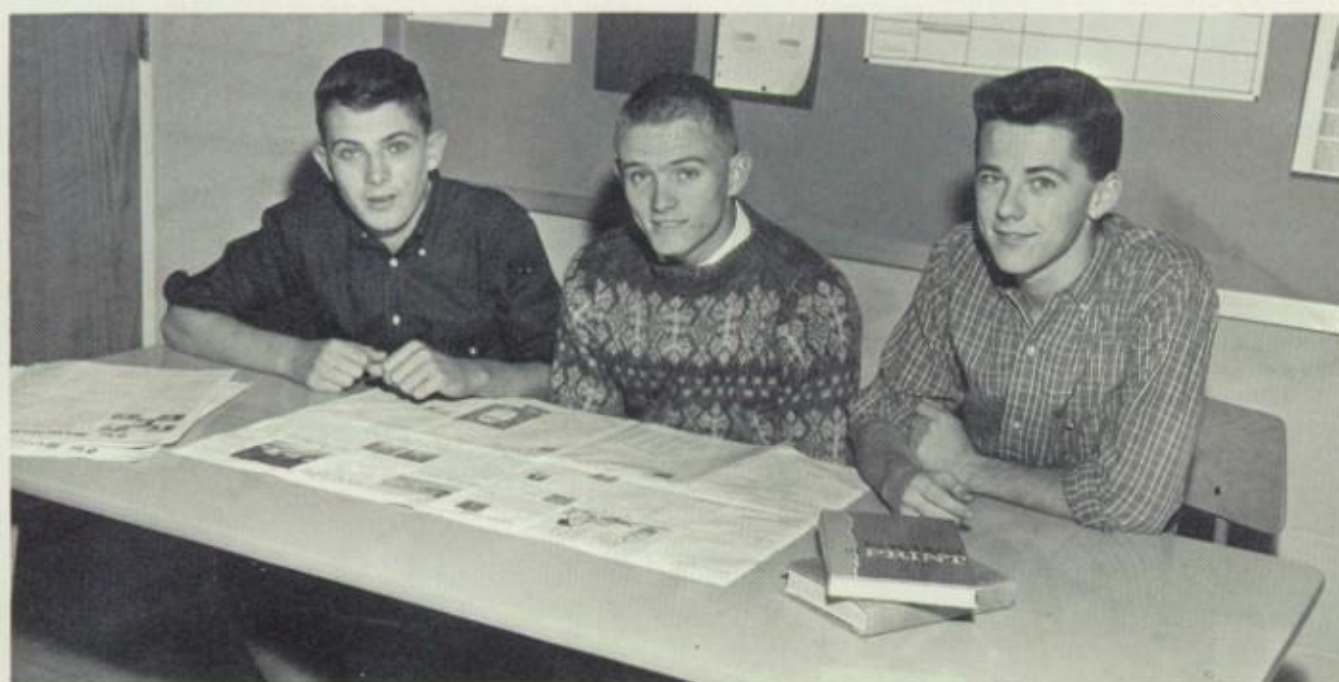

THE STATESMAN is the bearer of school news and other items of interest to the Patrick Henry cast of players. The newspaper staff met daily to publish the seventeen issues of THE STATESMAN. The complete planning cycle for each issue fell into overlapping two-week periods. Peggy Atkins made assignments to staff members; these assignments had to be finished the first week, pages made up, and the paper sent to press. Staff photographers provided nearly all the pictures used in THE STATESMAN. As one paper was sent to press, plans for the next issue were being made. By an exchange of papers on a city, state, and nation-wide scale, we are able to let other schools know of our activities at Patrick Henry.

All school publications are members of the Columbia Press Association, the Southern Interscholastic Press Association, and Quill and Scroll Press Association, to which schools present their publications for rating.

Quill Encourages Creativity in

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF, CAROL EDWARDS

QUILL, the literary art magazine of Patrick Henry, is published in the Fall and Spring of each year. Most material is selected from the Creative Writing class, where young hopefuls, under the direction of Mrs. Mildred Sadler, test their talent and try their luck at new ventures in writing. Cinquains, character sketches, articles, interpretations, themes, short stories, and various other forms of literature are studied and written. The magazine staff chooses from this material selections that will go together to make an interesting magazine, and we hope, a winning one.

Art classes, with Mrs. Shirlee Young's guidance, illustrate the articles in the QUILL. Appropriate sketches are selected from assignments and students' sketch books; in some cases articles are inspired by drawings. The work . . . play . . . reading . . . writing . . . laughing . . . the last minute rush to the printer . . . the thrill of seeing our own writing and illustrations in The Quill!

The Patriot staff, meeting every day the sixth period and on occasion on Saturdays with Mrs. Elizabeth Drewry, literary advisor, and Mrs. Shirlee Young, art advisor, produced a memory book for all Patriots. In this book the entire student body and faculty, and their activities are recorded.

The staff members worked diligently setting up the pagination, making lay-outs, writing copy, and arranging sections. This year our yearbook is enhanced by the illustrations of Sam Gantt and Dianne Watts.

The interviews with club presidents and sponsors, the copy-rush, the hunt-and-peck typing of material, meeting deadlines, and the last minute hurry and scurry, are stage props for the Patriot production.

F. T. A. Girls Focus on the Future

The Future Teachers of America, a department of the Virginia Education Association, offers its members insight to education as a career. Programs and activities of the FTA have been set up to acquaint students with the teaching profession through such experiences as observing classes in progress and assisting in classroom activities. A visit to Radford College, and attendance at the State FTA Convention gave members an insight into preparation for their careers. At one meeting, customs and education in Japan were discussed by Miss Anne Somers Bailey, who taught and lived in Japan for four years and is now at Patrick Henry.

Officers of the FTA are Janet Miller, Treas.; Leonora Talley, Reporter; Jo Ann Fulton, Pres.; Judy Powell, Sec.; and Ann Copenhaver, Vice-Pres.

F. H. A. Works Toward New Horizons

Future Homemakers of America is the national organization of students studying homemaking in junior and senior high schools.

As an integral part of the homemaking program, F.H.A. provides opportunities for students to have additional experiences in planning and carrying out activities related to homemaking.

Activities of the club included preparing the food for the Faculty Tea, a Mother-Daughter Buffet, and a Valentine party given with the FHA Chapter from Jefferson for the patients at the Mary Louise Home. At the November meeting Mrs. Kathline Mills spoke on the Civil Defense program. The club ended its activities with a gay picnic at Fishburn Park.

THE DISTRIBUTIVE EDUCATION CLUB

After four periods of classes the members of the D.E. Club leave school to go to work. Here they apply the fundamentals of business learned in a special D.E. class. When they graduate from high school, these students have achieved not only an academic education but also the experience needed to know how to do a job well in later life.

While in D.E. the members attend conventions, and, to express their appreciation, give a banquet at the end of the year for their employers. They also enter a district competition of the business field, in which they won five honors this year.

Better Business— A Better World

The Better Business Club has as its goal the slogan "Better Business Education-Better Business World". Each member feels the importance of learning her skill to be of service to the school and to the community.

To understand better the practices and policies of business and industry and to keep informed about the ever-changing business world, the members interview personnel managers, engage speakers, study occupations, and have panel discussions, field trips, and movies.

The club also sponsors service projects for needy people of the community. In the near future they plan to be affiliated with the Future Business Leaders of America.

Girls' Intramurals are Sponsored

The Girls Athletic Association promotes participation in athletics among girls at Patrick Henry. Activities include co-sponsoring a banquet for all city volleyball teams, preparing a Christmas basket, officiating at Junior High volleyball games, sponsoring an All-Star volleyball game between the faculty and students, and selling programs at football games.

This year at Patrick Henry any girl could be a member of the GAA. In order to remain in the club she must participate in one major sport or earn one hundred points, not miss more than three meetings, and pay her dues. These one hundred points may be earned in a number of ways. Girls receive a certain number of points for each sport participation, for each team for which they try out, for being on a team, for playing in three-fourths of all the games, and for selling football programs.

Hail, Patrick Henry, We'll Always Stand by You . . .

The Varsity Cheerleaders have tried to boost and encourage school spirit at Patrick Henry. They worked hard this past summer writing and working up new cheers. After they were written the girls memorized them, then practiced twice a week—meeting in the Shenandoah Life parking lot and yelling for an hour or more. Before football season the cheerleaders planned and held two pep rallies with the aid of the band, Liberty Belles, and the faculty. Cheerleaders have an additional duty of hanging posters during football and basketball season.

Choir Gives Many Performances

The Patrick Henry High School Choir of forty-five juniors and seniors had a very active first year. Although hindered by the lack of a piano for the first three months of the school year, the Choir prepared the Thanksgiving Assembly and participated in the Christmas and the Dedication Programs. In addition, the Choir presented programs at Crossroads Mall and the Veteran's Hospital and for the Kiwanis Club and the Junior Chamber of Commerce. On Christmas morning a video taped performance of the Choir was shown on television station W.S.L.S.

In the spring a concert, entitled "Say It With Music", was given and a weekend trip to Washington, D. C. was made. At the end of the year the Choir provided the music for the Baccalaureate and Commencement Exercises.

Bob Burdette directed the Pep Band, which played for assemblies, and basketball games.

Of the sixty band members, eighteen tried for, and eighteen were accepted into the All State Band. In March, the Band participated in the District Music Festival, in both concerts showing their exceptional musical ability.

Liberty Belles Lead the March

To be seen marching smartly with the Band are the girls in Purple: the Liberty Belles. Appended to the band, and composed of twenty-four members, the Belles have participated not only in parades, but in pep assemblies, football games, and in the Spring Band Show. Sponsored by Mrs. Patsel, these girls practiced almost daily after school, working out new "routines", and becoming the most proficient group in the field.

Patrick Henry's Y-Teens are affiliated with a world-wide organization that seeks to help girls grow into mature women with high ideals. Each member subscribes to this purpose: to grow as a person, to grow in the knowledge and love of God, to grow in friendship with all people.

Through the year the Y-Teens tried to carry out these goals in their programs and projects of service. Because clubs throughout the Roanoke Valley work together, girls from Patrick Henry found themselves meeting representatives from other schools and joining them in activities at the "Y". The school club was also represented at the Y-Teens' State Convention in Richmond by Collette Fields.

Miss Ludwick and Miss Bailey co-sponsored the efforts of the club. Officers not pictured are Service Projects Chairman, Faye Pleasants; Music Chairman, Mary Carraway; World Fellowship Chairman, Bette Evans; and Class Representatives, Elaine Hatcher and Pat Gwaltney.

An Active Hi-Y Serves the School

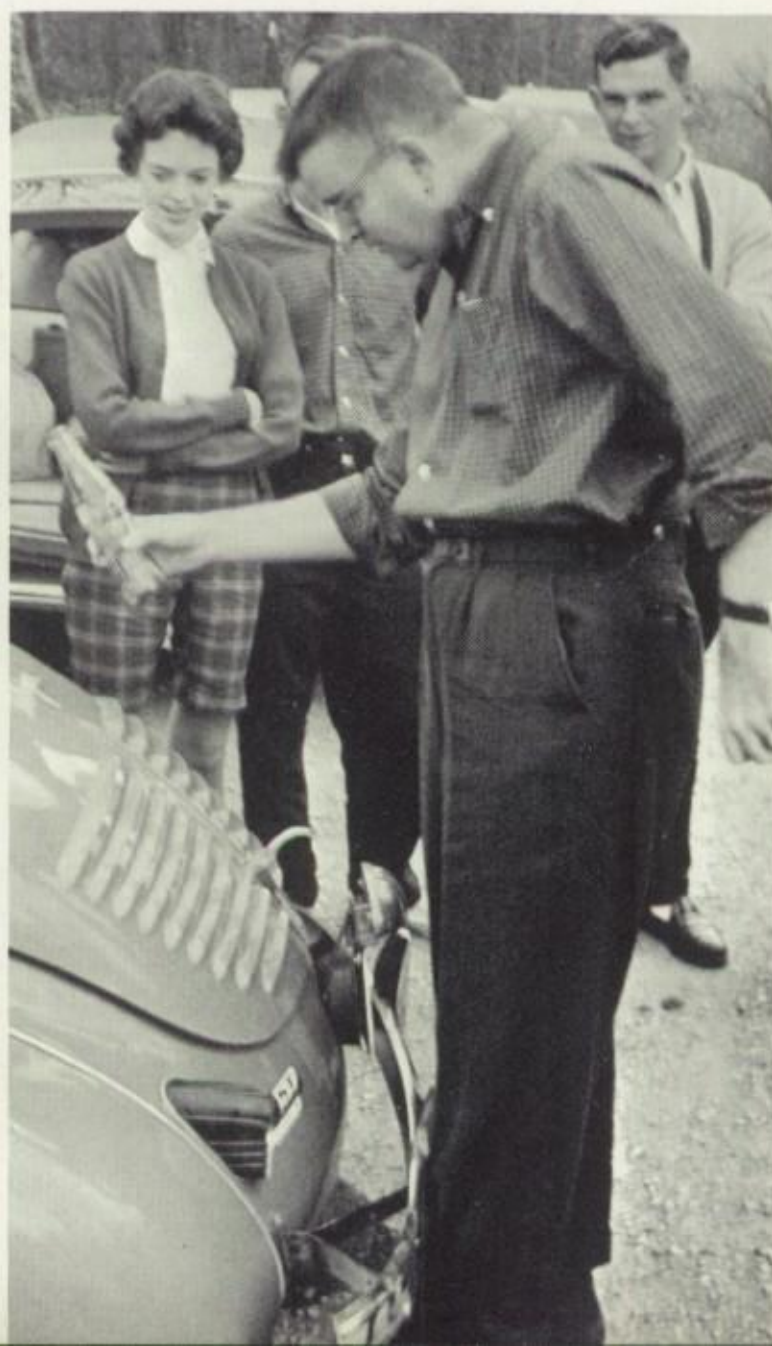

The Patrick Henry Hi-Y has proved itself a service organization. Members of the club acted as guides on Orientation Days, parked cars at football games, raised and lowered the flag each day, during the first semester took charge of the blessings at the three lunch periods, delivered Christmas baskets, collected donations for the March of Dimes, and helped collect text books at the end of the year. In addition, the members treated underprivileged children to a Thanksgiving dinner at the S & W.

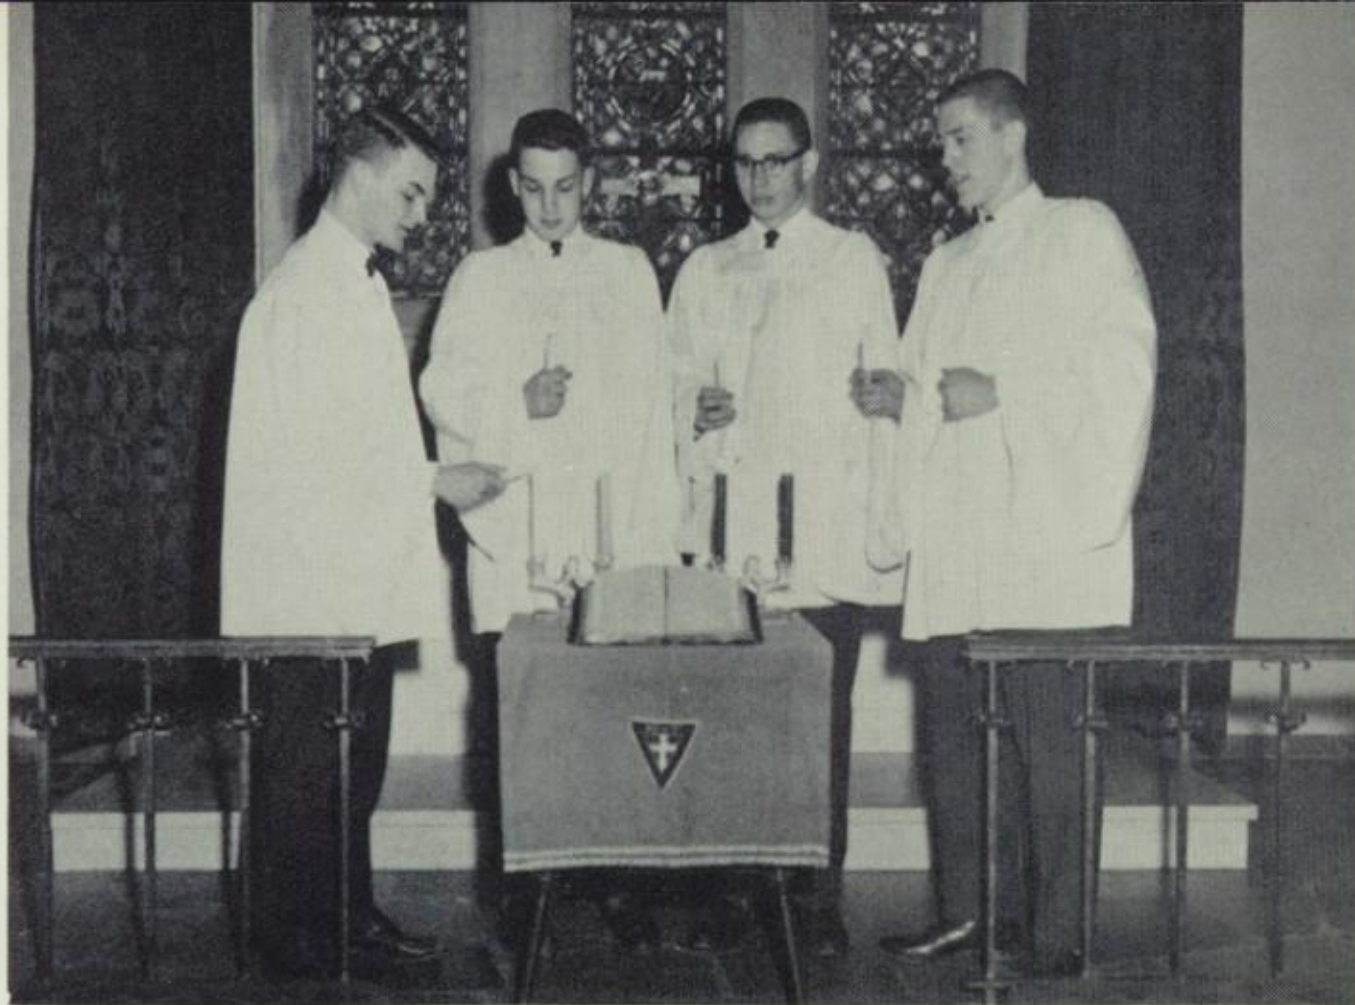

This year the Hi-Y served as host club for the Southwest District Hi-Y Clubs and sent several representatives to Blue Ridge and the Model General Assembly in Richmond.

Activities of the Hi-Y included the Induction and Rededication Services, a fall picnic near McAfee's Knob, and a picnic at the end of the year at which the new officers were installed, and Mr. Pitzer was given a token of appreciation.

Government Coordinates Activities

Our Student Government at Patrick Henry is set up in a very efficient and unique manner. Its activities have helped to fulfill its purpose, which is to promote school activities and functions and to allow all students, by working together, to take an actual part in the governing of their school.

We have a legislative body called the House of Burgesses in which each homeroom is represented. This House meets once a week in the cafeteria and discusses student problems, and proposes school projects. The president of the Student Government presides over these meetings with aid from the other three Student Government officers, the Parliamentarian, and the Executive Council, who serve as ex-officio members.

The House of Burgesses is the student forum of the Student Government and is the voice of the student body. By means of this House, voice of the students is heard and plans are made for student activities.

The three Executive Secretaries, Kitty Downs, Chairman of Publicity; Carol Wood, Corresponding Secretary; and Linda Woods, Clerical Secretary.

Members of the Student Directory Committee, Tommy Holcomb and Ann Copenhaver, consult Miss Wood about a problem of layout.

Whity Richardson, Jim Spiggle, members of the Orientation Committee, guide Carty Richards to her sixth period class.

Co-Chairmen of the Foreign Exchange Student Committee, Bill Mangus and Phil Cotton wonder from what country our next year's foreign student will come.

The other branch of our Student Government is the Executive Council which holds scheduled meetings twice a week the sixth period. This council consists of the Cabinet, a president and an Executive Council Representative from each of the four classes, the three Hall Chairmen, and the three appointed secretaries. The Council carries out all legislation passed by the House of Burgesses and approved by the Executive Council. It appoints all student representatives to inter-school conferences such as the annual Youth Seminar and the Youth Forum, and maintains a standing Hospitality Committee to serve as hosts to Patrick Henry guests.

The Student Government started the year by arranging and carrying out the Orientation Program. After school was under way, they entertained the teachers with a Faculty Tea; published the Student Directory; handled all elections; formed the Inter-Club Association; and wrote a school charter and constitution. They sponsored our Foreign Exchange Program, provided music in the cafeteria, organized the Student Lounge, and sponsored the Honor Campaign.

Mark Moses, Horace Thomas, and Colette Fields work on the Constitution for Patrick Henry.

Betty Davis and John Bolger operate the polls for student elections. Vicky Hutson votes for Senior Class Officers.

Other activities included holding a special election for a school nickname, having an Installation Service for next year's Student Government Officers, sending delegates to the SCA Conference held at Radford College and presenting a fund raising project for the spring.

Our student government was active in the District, State, Southern, and National Associations of Student Councils. At the 27th Annual Conference of the Southern Association of Student Councils held in Amarillo, Texas. Patrick Henry High held the office of Parliamentarian. Vincent Conway represented our school in that office.

Buddy Nash and Paulette McCall hang streamers for the Crystal Ball. Kitty Downs was Chairman of the dance committee.

THE ACTION

Our football, basketball, and baseball teams, dressed in vivid new uniforms, were cheered on by Patriot support. We saw football, baseball, and basketball games; track meets; wrestling, golf, and tennis matches enter our vivid drama. These provided excitement and action to enthusiastic sports fans.

For the outstanding performance of our team, much credit goes to the coaching staff. Head coach Charles Tucker, in Roanoke for three years, has had a winning season every year. Other coaches are Howard Light, who has kept our offense moving throughout the year, and line coaches Leon Briggs and Chuck Stephens, who have built a powerful offensive and defensive wall.

This year's top award winners were Hill Ellett and Joe Churchill. Churchill's awards were first team All City-County, All Western District, second team All State, honorable mention, All American and Outstanding Lineman of the Area; he was voted by the team as the Most Valuable Lineman. Ellett was chosen second team All Western District, third team All City-County, voted by the team Outstanding Back and Most Valuable Player.

Mike Ewers (42) of Jefferson finds the going rough against Ken Hyde (53) and Bob Dhue (10). Coming on to help with the stop is Randy Habeck.

Mud-soaked Patriots watch intently as their teammates, despite rain and mud, slosh to victory.

Patrick Henry's first football team had a successful season, compiling a 6-4 record. The team did an outstanding job although it lacked experience and size, and was the youngest team in the city-county area. These drawbacks were overcome by speed, effort, and an excellent defense. Perhaps the best game of the season was against city-county rival William Fleming. The "Big Purple", under the daring quarterbacking of Hill Ellett, overcame a 7-0 deficit and won 14-7.

The future looks bright for the "Big Purple". Next year there will be twenty lettermen returning, led by Eddie Scruggs, E. B. Snow, W. J. Blane, James Stutts, and freshman Mike Cubit, who was voted by the team the Most Improved Player. The lettermen will also be supported by many sophomores and freshmen.

The white-uniformed boys you see running around during the games are the hard-working managers. This job is probably the least appreciated of the entire team.

Our football managers, Don Moore and Paul Gustafson, open the storage room, ready to pack equipment away for another season. They were assisted by Bill Otey and Jimmy Brandeau, not pictured.

Basketball Has Exciting Season

Our basketball team, coached by Rex Downey, completed the regular season with a 9-9 record. Although many of the boys were slow and inexperienced; height and tremendous effort allowed the team to break even. Andy Good, a 6'5" senior, who was very effective with his long jump shots from the corner throughout the season, was high scorer for the team. Big Al Buckley (6'6" forward) pressed Andy for high point honors with his shooting from the inside. Center Dave Price (6'3") proved invaluable with his aggressive rebounding. Co-Captains Hill Ellett and W. J. Blane did much to spur the team on with their long shots from outside the foul circle.

A majority of this year's team will return next year. Regulars W. J. Blane and Dave Price are only juniors. These two will be supported by Bob Dhue and Les Burnley, juniors; and Steve Shaver and Jim Boon, sophomores.

This year's entire team is as follows: Andy Good, Al Buckley, Dave Price, Hill Ellett, W. J. Blane, Bob Dhue, Les Burnley, Jim Boon, Steve Shaver, Merle Barber, and David Brammer.

Coach Rex Downey came to Roanoke this year from Waynesboro, Va., where he coached the Little Giants to ten consecutive winning seasons. This year's game with Waynesboro was a real heartbreaker, losing 57 to 48, but the Patriots came back later in the season to beat the Little Giants 63 to 57. The game with E. C. Glass was also a real thriller, going into six overtimes, although the Patriots lost 42 to 40.

Coach Downey is looking forward to a championship team at Patrick Henry in the next three to five years. This optimism is backed by many prospective sophomores and freshmen.

If the won-loss record is the only factor considered, the 1961-62 season was not an impressive one. Despite the losing season, the matmen continued to work hard in practice, even with lack of facilities. This effort paid off in the last three matches of the season, winning twice over Covington and once over William Byrd.

Special recognition goes to heavyweight, Bill Stephens, who for the past two years has won sixteen straight regular season matches, including eight this season.

Coach Leon Briggs, in his first year as a wrestling coach, worked constantly with the boys, developing them into a fine team.

Track coach, Howard Light, discusses his prospects for the coming season. A former track star at Jefferson High School, Mr. Light has had a winning season every year since he took over the coaching duties.

Future Years

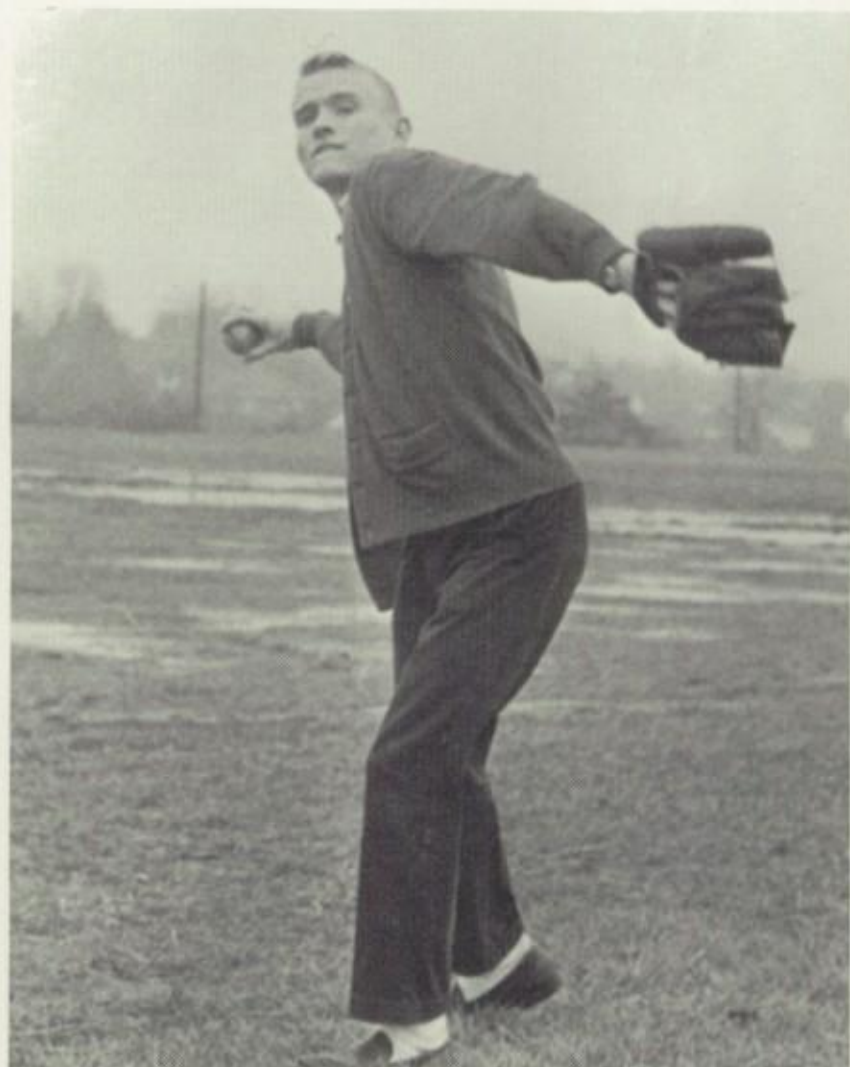

The 1962 track team, under the coaching of Howard Light and Charles Tucker, promises to be one of our most successful sports this year. Our high hopes rest upon four or five key men. Among these are Johnny Edwards, who set the City-County pole vault record at 13 feet; Jim Spiggle, also a speedy sprinter; Paul Forth, who ran a 4:37 mile and tied for first place in the City-County meet last year; and Jimmy Nolan, who did well in his sophomore year at Fishburn Military Academy.

Of course we are looking for much assistance from many other hardworking thinclads from all four grades here at Patrick Henry. Furthermore, we expect many of the bigger boys to participate both in the shot put and discus throwing, an important part of any track team.

W. J. Blane bends down to pick up a ground ball during an early practice session.

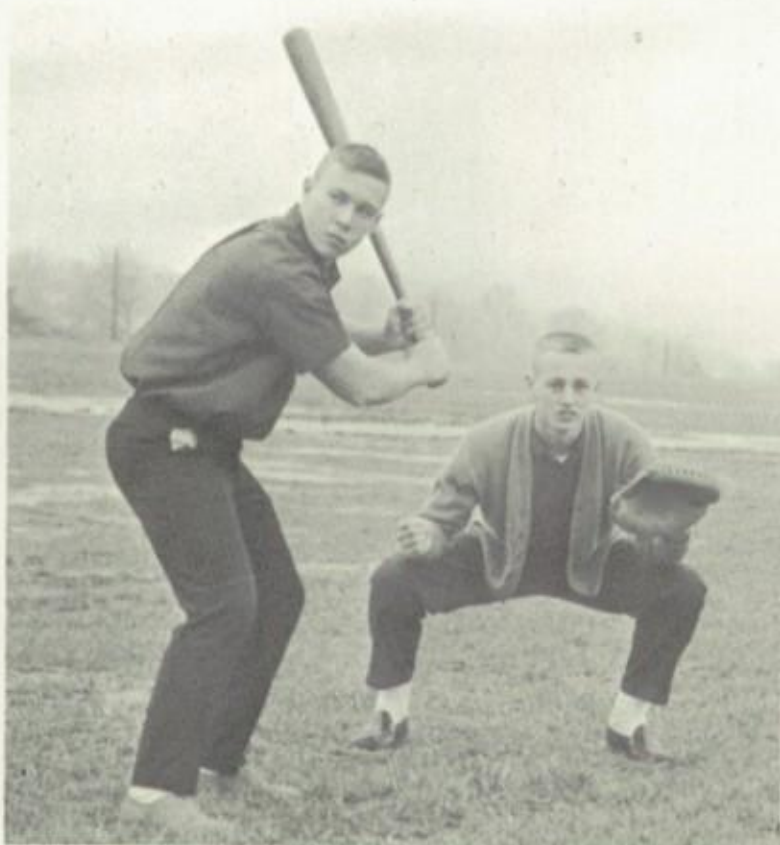

Eddie Scruggs, a promising prospect to carry on the pitching duties this year, warms up before practice.

Baseball, Golf and Tennis

BASEBALL

Patrick Henry's first baseball team is composed of seven returning lettermen: They are: Andy Good, Dave Brammer, Eddie Scruggs, E. B. Snow, Dave Price, Bill Mangus, and Ruben Terry. Of course, these will receive support from the new recruits. Pitching is the most outstanding asset of this year's team. Veterans Andy Good and David Brammer, along with Dave Price and Eddie Scruggs take care of the mound chores. Likewise, in the batting department we have many sluggers contending for top honors.

This year's coach is Leonard Mosser. In the fall he coached freshmen football and this winter, junior varsity basketball, both of which had successful seasons.

One of the top batters, E. B. Snow gets set for the pitch as catcher Ruben Terry puts up the target.

TENNIS

The first Patrick Henry tennis team promises to be one of the best that has ever been in the city-county area. Six lettermen at Jefferson last year, are eligible for action with the Patriots this year. There are also many new prospects who have enough potential to develop into fine players.

David Burrows and Bobby Cooper, head the list of returning lettermen. Burrows was in the number one position last year, while Cooper held down the number two spot. The other lettermen are Ed White, Preston Thomas and George Howell. Plenty of help is expected from new comers Ronnie Way, Eric Heiner and Horace Thomas.

Prospective Members of the Tennis Team are, Bobby Cooper, Eric Heiner, Rusty Richardson, Ronnie Way, and Ed White.

Field Promising Teams

GOLF

This is a promising year for our new golf team, with three senior returning lettermen. These are Roy Smith, Steve Hazelwood, and Skip Kerns. Many other players are also hoping for a berth on the 1962 team. Dickie Reid and John Kyle, both juniors who played well at other schools last year, are among the likely prospects. It must be noted that Patrick Henry has one of the few golf teams in Southwest Virginia. Therefore, we have a wide-spread schedule.

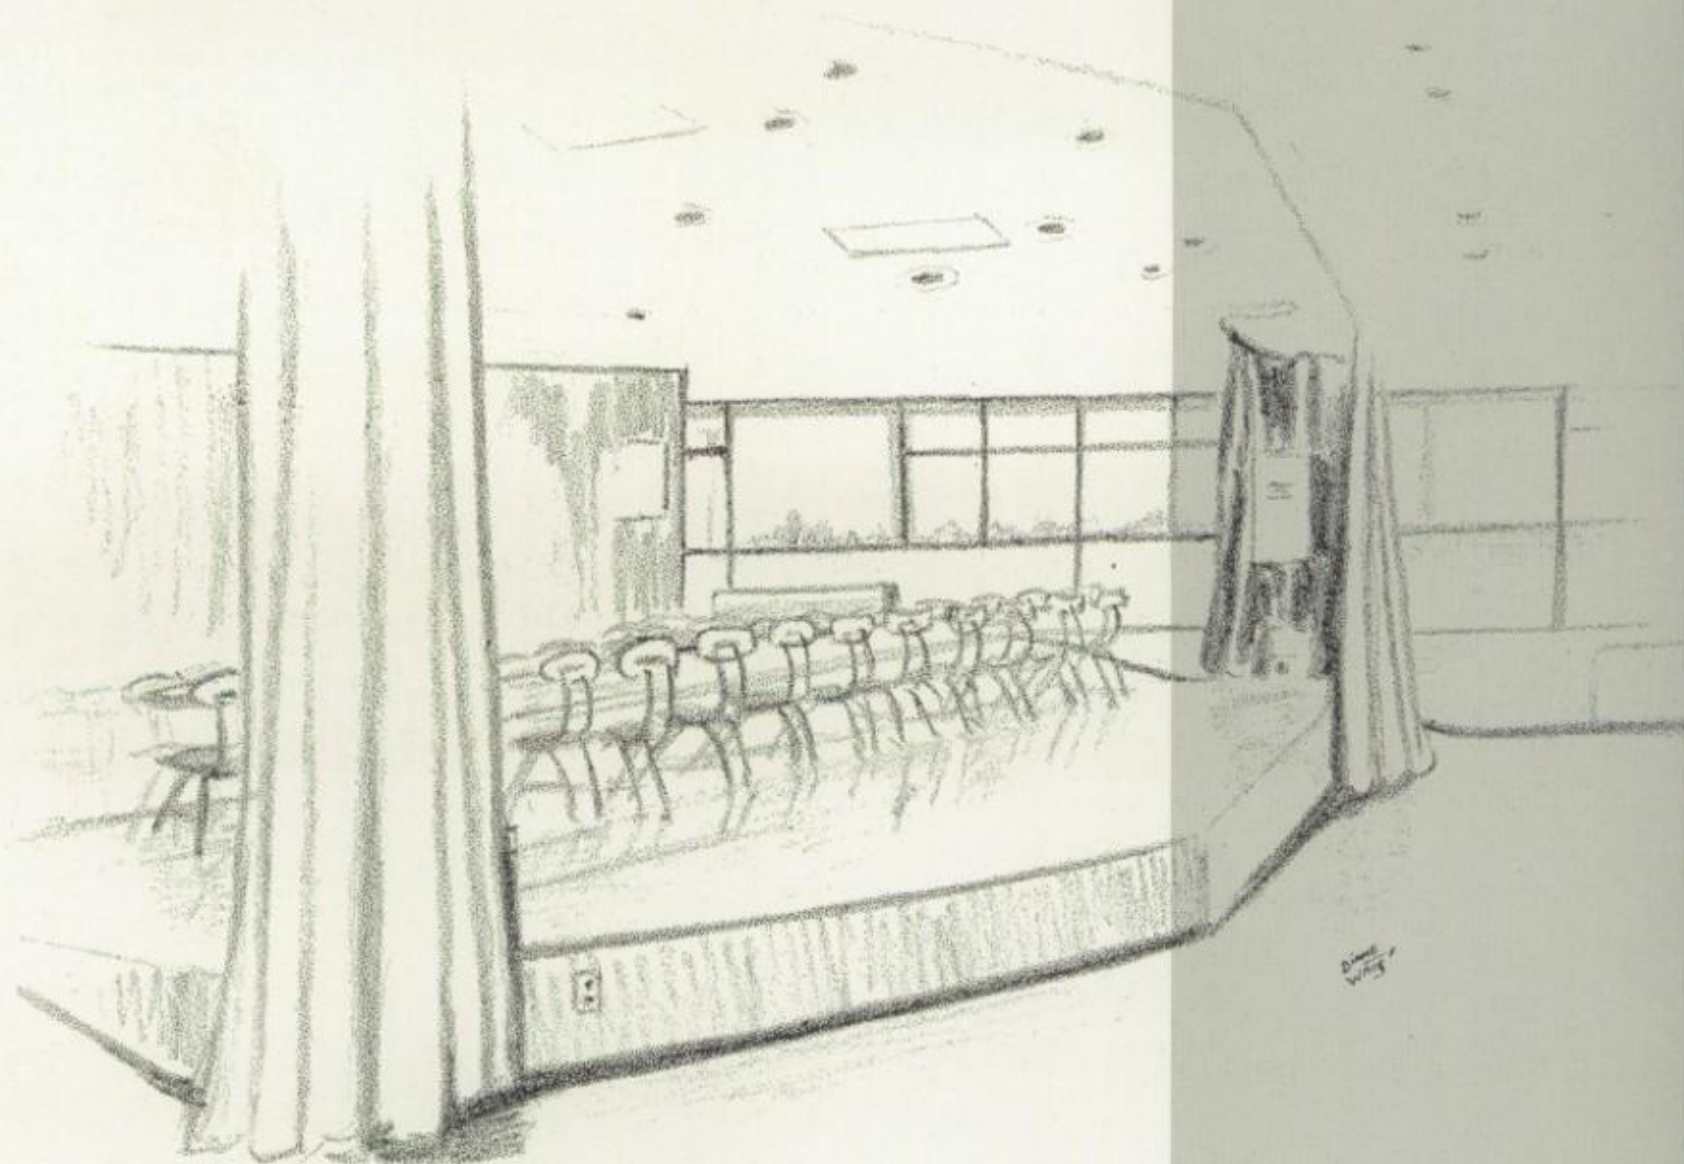

Coaching the golfers is Chuck Stephens, offensive line coach for the football team and formerly a star center at Virginia Tech.

Dickie Reid and John Kyle look on as Steve Hazelwood practices his driving. They all are prospective golfers for this year's team.

THE REVIEWS

The reviews proved excellent. Critics and the public alike acclaimed the performance and honored the cast with awards in many categories. One award we particularly appreciate is Dr. McQuilkin's gift of personal memorabilia to the hall that bears his name. Our show is a success and we predict an extended run, with each season raising the standards set by the original cast.

The National Honor Society was founded to recognize high school students who maintain high standards of scholarship, leadership, service, and character. Through this recognition and various activities throughout the year the Honor Society encourages all students to improve their academic standing, use their leadership abilities, serve their school, and strengthen their character. The Patrick Henry Chapter of the National Honor Society began the year with fourteen members. On March 9, 1962, juniors and seniors who met the requirements of the society were tapped for membership. During the year the National Honor Society sponsored the sale of paperback books in the library; profits from this activity will be used to buy new books for the library. Quill and Scroll, the International Honor Society for High School Journalists, was founded at the University of Iowa in 1926 by a group of journalism teachers who wished to recognize and reward worthy high school journalists. The purpose of Quill and Scroll is to instill in students the ideal of scholarship; to advance the standards of the journalistic profession; to promote exact and dispassioned thinking.

We Achieved

As we step back to take a view of this year's work, we can readily see success and achievement. We watched ourselves start with doubts but finish with assurance; begin with confusion, end with organization; commence with misgivings, graduate with trust. We worked for what we believed, hoping eventually to see these patterns develop into a way of life. We strived for the best in our first, most difficult, but most important year. We have set a standard that will become a symbol of tradition, a mark of excellence, and will bring a feeling of pride for years to come.
